

Success Stories

National Park Service

The National Park Service handles two of the nation's most renowned parkways: The George Washington Parkway and the Clara Barton Parkway. McDonnell Landscape was selected to provide grounds maintenance services for both.

Parkways demand quality services in an extremely difficult work environment. Our team-based approach maintains quality and ensures that each area is completely serviced before we move on to the next. Plus, our Washington metro headquarters ensures that equipment and crews are always available to handle any situation.

Parkways demand quality services in an extremely difficult and sometimes hazardous work environment. McDonnell Landscape crews are well-equipped to meet the challenge.

George Washington Parkway

National Park Service

Project Scope:

Providing grounds maintenance services for 85 acres of roadways and parks along the George Washington Parkway and Lady Bird Johnson Park located in Alexandria, VA. Services provided — trimming, edging, debris/trash removal and grass cutting.

Clara Barton Parkway

National Park Service

Project Scope:

Maintaining 345 acres of roadways, historic buildings and parks for the entire Clara Barton Parkway located from Great Falls, MD to Chain Bridge in Washington, DC. Services provided — trimming, edging, debris/trash removal and grass cutting.

- McDonnell Landscape has extensive experience maintaining major roadways in the Washington Metro area
- Experienced project managers and crews know how to maintain quality standards over extended areas
- Snow removal services are also available using in-house equipment and personnel